In Memoriam

In sad but loving remembrance of my dear mother, Willie Carter Bondurant, who departed this life one year ago today, April 4, 1931.
Through all pain at times she smiled—a smile of heavenly birth,
And when the angels called her home, she smiled farewell to earth.
Heaven retaineth now my treasure,
Earth the lonely casket keeps.
And the sunbeams love to linger—
Where my dear mother sleeps.
Her Children: Mrs. W. H. Robertson, Mrs. A. L. Weakley, Mrs. M. A. Stratton, Mr. Tom Bondurant, and Wallace Bondurant.

In Memoriam

In memory of our beloved mother, Mrs. Maud Oliver, who died two years ago today, April 1, 1930.
In a far and distant graveyard,
Where the trees their branches wave,
Lies our darling mother
Whom we tried so hard to save,
Dearest mother, how we miss you,
Tears in silence often flow;
And our hearts still are bleeding
Though you died two years ago.
Children, Pauline and C. A., Jr.

In memory of my dear wife, Mrs. Maud Oliver, who passed away two years ago today, April 1, 1930.
For many years we traveled along Iran's pathway together,
and then like a tired child you calmly laid down and slept,
leaving me here with a broken heart, to journey on alone.
But God is good.
He gave me strength to bear my heavy cross.
He is the only one who knows How bitter was my loss.

That's why Castoria is used by so many doctors and mothers. It is specially made for children's ailments; contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. You can safely give it to young infants for colic pains. Yet it is an equally effective regulator for older children. The next time your child has a little cold or fever, or a digestive upset, give him the help of Castoria, the children's own remedy. Genuine Castoria always has the name:

CHAFF

Delegates from this county to the Institute of Public Affairs held at Charlotteville last week returned reporting an interesting and constructive meeting. Problems of county government reform were taken up at the meetings in detail.

* * * *

A suggestion made by one of the speakers at the institute would eliminate the school board placing the work of the board in the hands of the supervisors, thus bringing the administration of the schools closer to the people. C. W. Smith, commenting on this suggestion, said that it would probably necessitate employing another clerk although it might save expense in other ways.

* * * *

Abolishing the fee system of paying county officers and placing them strickly on a salary basis was also suggested at the meeting. The present fee system is one of the most condemned features of the county government.

* * * *

A second feature attacked is the present judges' power to appoint a number of county officers in the hands of the judges. Taking the judges out of politics is generally agreed to be the only sane way to a true democracy.

* * * *

A county supervisor who attended the institute after listening to a number of the speakers, rose and stated that in his opinion it was not so much the system as the officers; if you have corrupt officials, no matter what the system, there will be corrupt practices. Which is true, but better systems make for greater efficiency and expediency.
